Forward

In future years—while you are looking through this yearbook, if any of the precious memories of college days or beautiful scenes are brought to life in your reveries, the editor and the staff of this annual will feel that their purpose has been fulfilled.

In the words of the poet:

"You know how little while we have to stay,
And, once departed, may return no more."

Kanyon Hall

On any campus the girls' dormitory is a place of interest and at Pacific College this is no exception. Here in historic Kanyon Hall dwell 18 students and teachers. Erected in 1892, Kanyon Hall was originally located on South College street where at that time it was the Friends Academy. Later it was moved to its present location to serve as the women's dormitory for Pacific College.

Recently, the women's auxiliary of Pacific College has undertaken the project of replacing this historic building with a larger, modern structure, but like all good things, it takes time for them to be achieved. In view of this fact the College is planning to do a bit of remodeling upon our beloved Kanyon Hall, strengthening the supporting structure and improving the heating system.

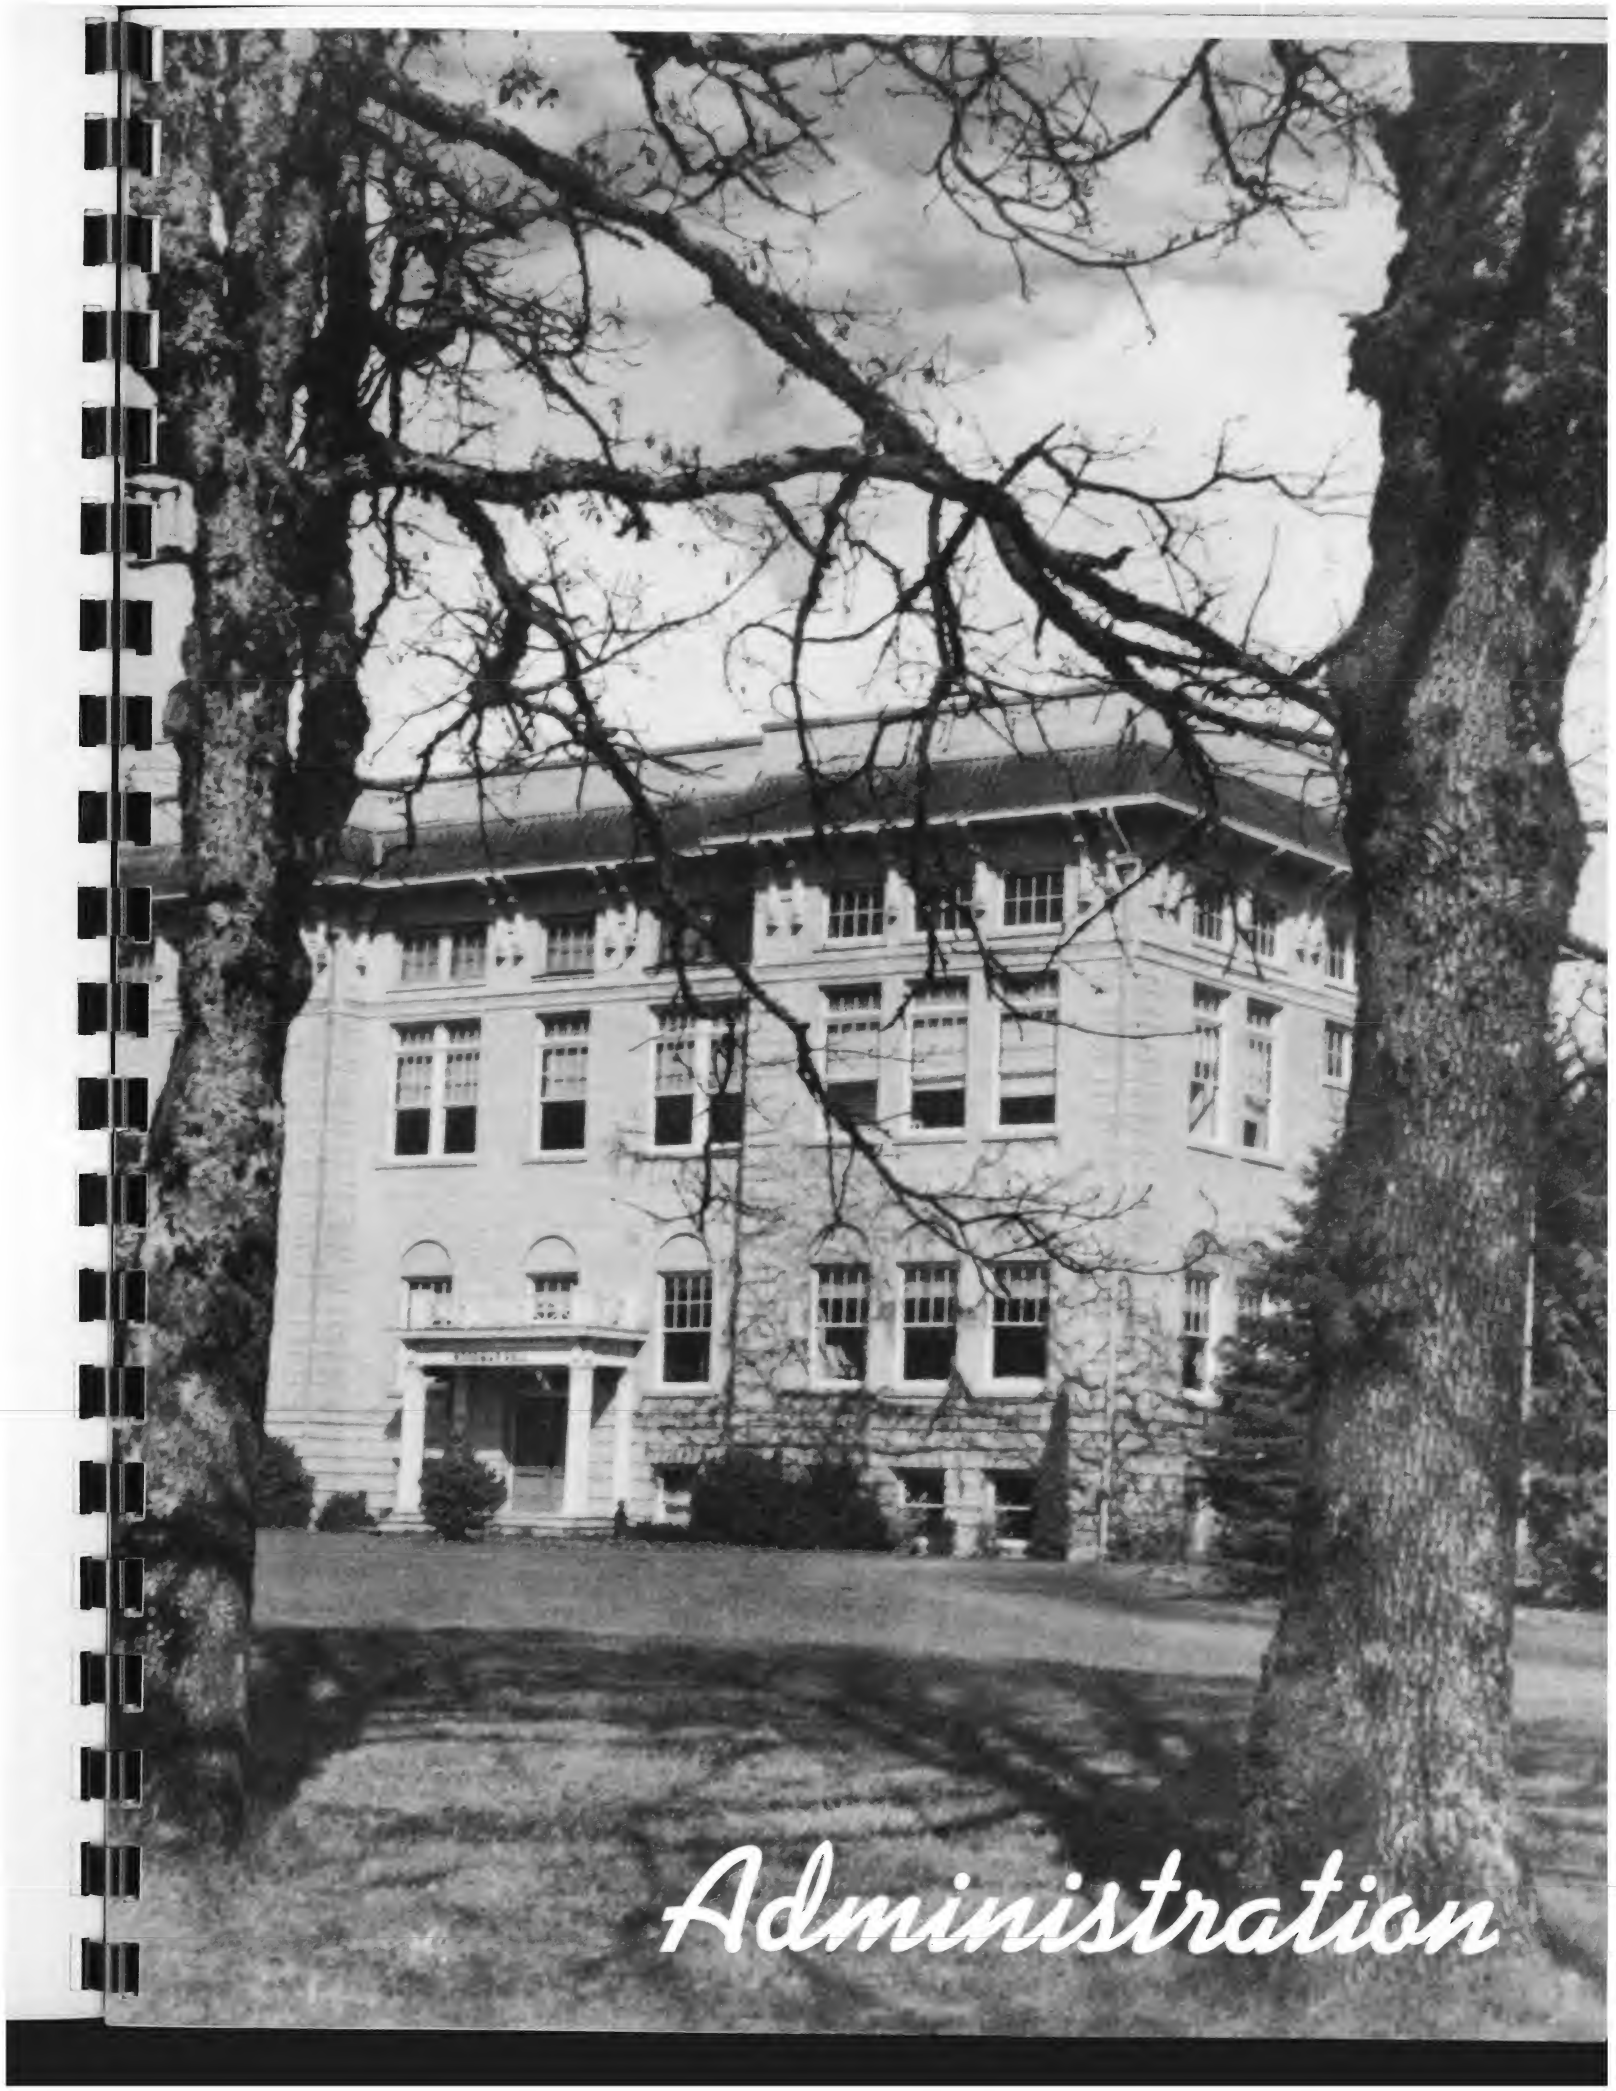

There are none of us who have lived there but will remember the many happy hours spent in dear old Kanyon Hall.

Dedication

To Professor Emmett W. Gulley, who for ten years has been a competent instructor, a worthy adviser, and a constant friend, and who has through great personal sacrifice to himself and his family spent much time in war-torn Spain endeavoring to do his bit to alleviate the pitiful condition in which mankind finds itself in that country, we dedicate this '39 L'Ami.

Administration

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

To the Students, Alumni and Other Readers of L'Ami:
Dear Friends:

I appreciate sincerely the invitation of the editorial staff to express a word of greeting to you all. Some of you have known Pacific College less than a year; some of you knew it and helped to make it what it is long before I came to its service.

Let us all take pride in what the College has done in the past. In Europe, Asia, Africa, South America, and in many parts of North America, our graduates and former students have ably served humanity, as ministers, missionaries, Christian Association workers, teachers, lawyers, business administrators, public officials, managers of private enterprises, producers of the world's foods, handlers of transportation, healers of the wounds which war has made—in a thousand ways, ranging from the humblest service to the presidency of the United States.

Let us all appreciate the present. The students of today are not inferior to those of the past. We may not have among us now a future president of the United States—there's little probability of that among a hundred million and more. But there are keen, capable, dependable men and women among the Pacific College students of today, men and women who will do splendid service for the world in the future as they are doing good work today.

And let us all have confidence in that future. Whatever changes may be ahead for us, character will not fail, and the men and women who go out as worthy representatives of the ideals for which Pacific College stands will win success for themselves and give worth-while service to the world.

Sincerely your friend,
Levi T. Pennington

The general business of the campus is conducted through an association known as the Student Body. This group plans and provides for the social life of the school.

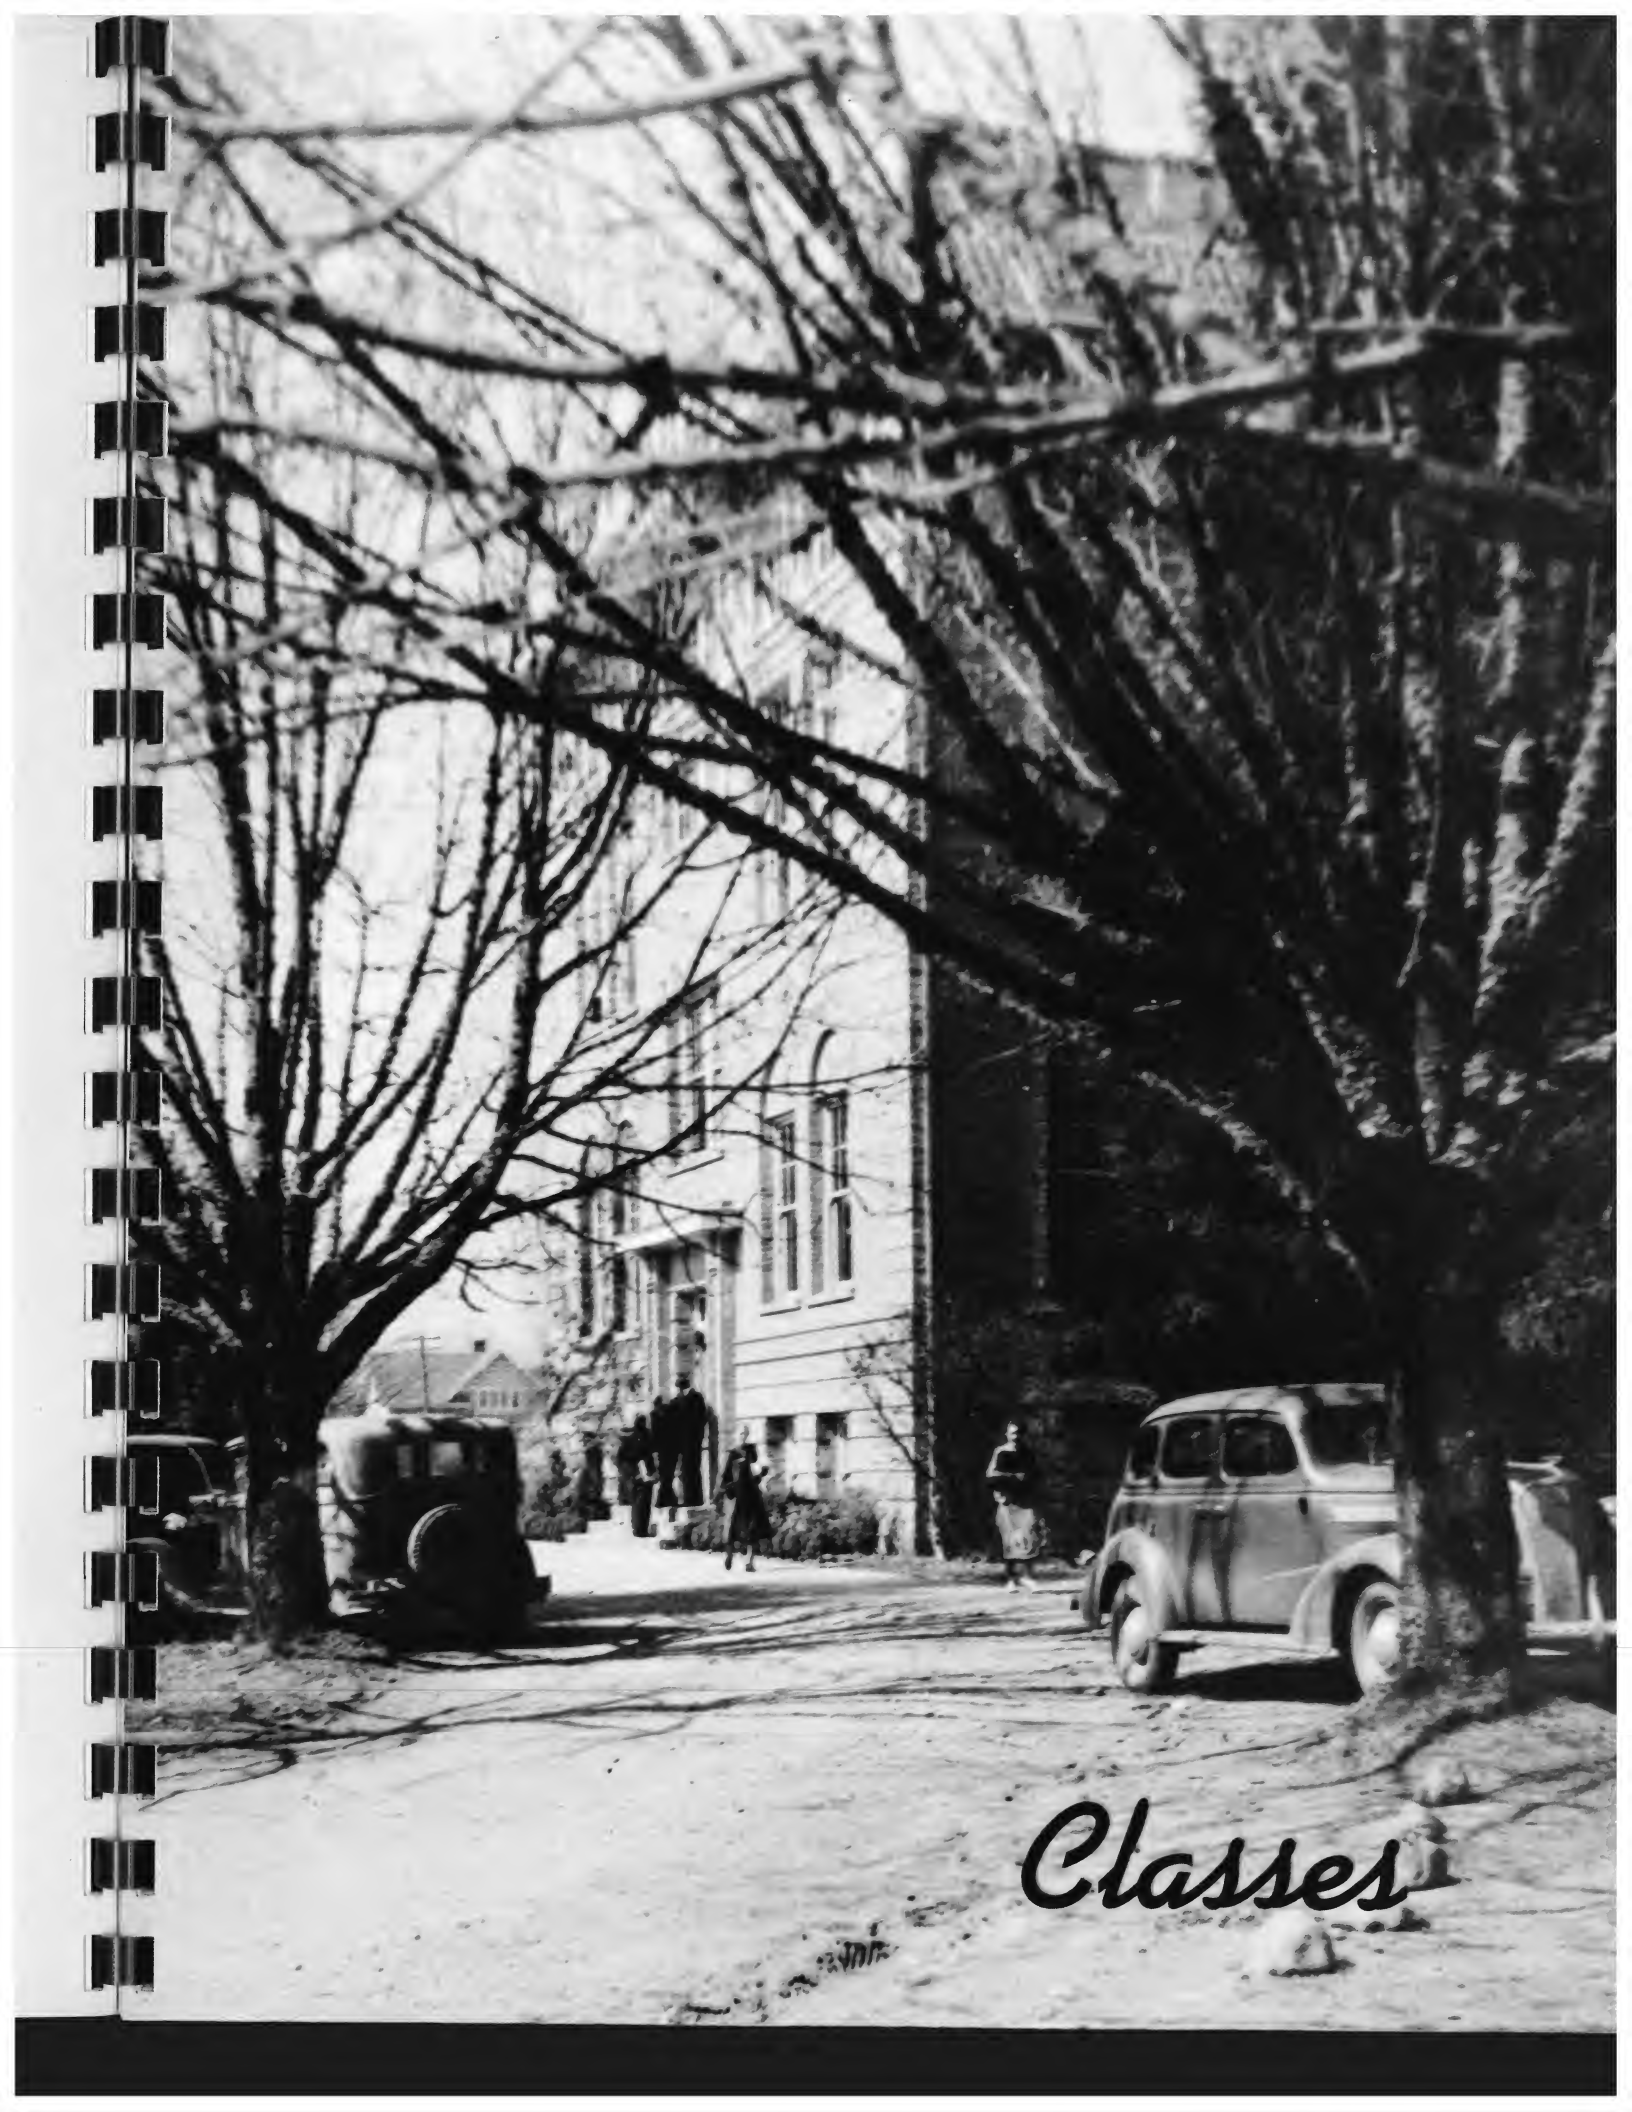

The nucleus of this group is the student executive council composed of the four main officers: president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer.

In addition to these, however, there are other important offices, which are filled by members of the student body and are directly under its jurisdiction.

The main purpose of the Associated Student Body is to promote unity of thought and purpose among the students.

The list of student officers for 1938-39 is as follows: president, Verle Emry; vice-president, Vera Hicks; secretary, Alfreda Martin; treasurer, Stanley Keller; chief treasurer, Ivan Makinster; and publicity manager, Robert Sieloff.

This group has been efficient in their duties and as a result the year has been a successful one for the student body.

Seniors

The class of 1939 claims the distinction of having assembled together from 21 different high schools. Of the 43 original members 12 are graduating. Other students who have joined forces with the class bring the total number to 14.

During the freshman year, a play, "The Millionaire" was presented. In the spring they entertained the Sophomores at a picnic at Roamer's Rest. Another freshman activity included initiation in the canyon. Wayne Burt was the able president to start this class on its four-year career.

Sophomore President Verle Emry led his class in its watchful vigilance over the incoming freshmen. The class gift was chosen for its utilitarian rather than its ornamental value, for the class provided seat-back racks in the chapel to hold the student body song books.

During the junior year the class was active in school sports and activities. Members of the class were also active in debate and dramatics. The high-light of the year was the Junior-Senior banquet. "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" was taken for the theme. Helen Schmeltzer, as president, received the citizenship placque as a reward for the successful class activities during the Junior year.

In the fall of 1938, the seniors elected Leslie Mae Blakely, president, to head the senior activities. Class rings appeared immediately after Christmas.

Senior sneak day was observed April 7 at Nelscott.

Preparations for class night and commencement are under way as a climax to the four years' activities.

Junior Class

A lively group of twenty-eight freshmen entered Pacific College in the fall of '36 and elected Jack Bennett to act as president for that year. This class was duly initiated by the class of '39 in a Student Chapel and also at a wiener roast held on Chehalem Mountain.

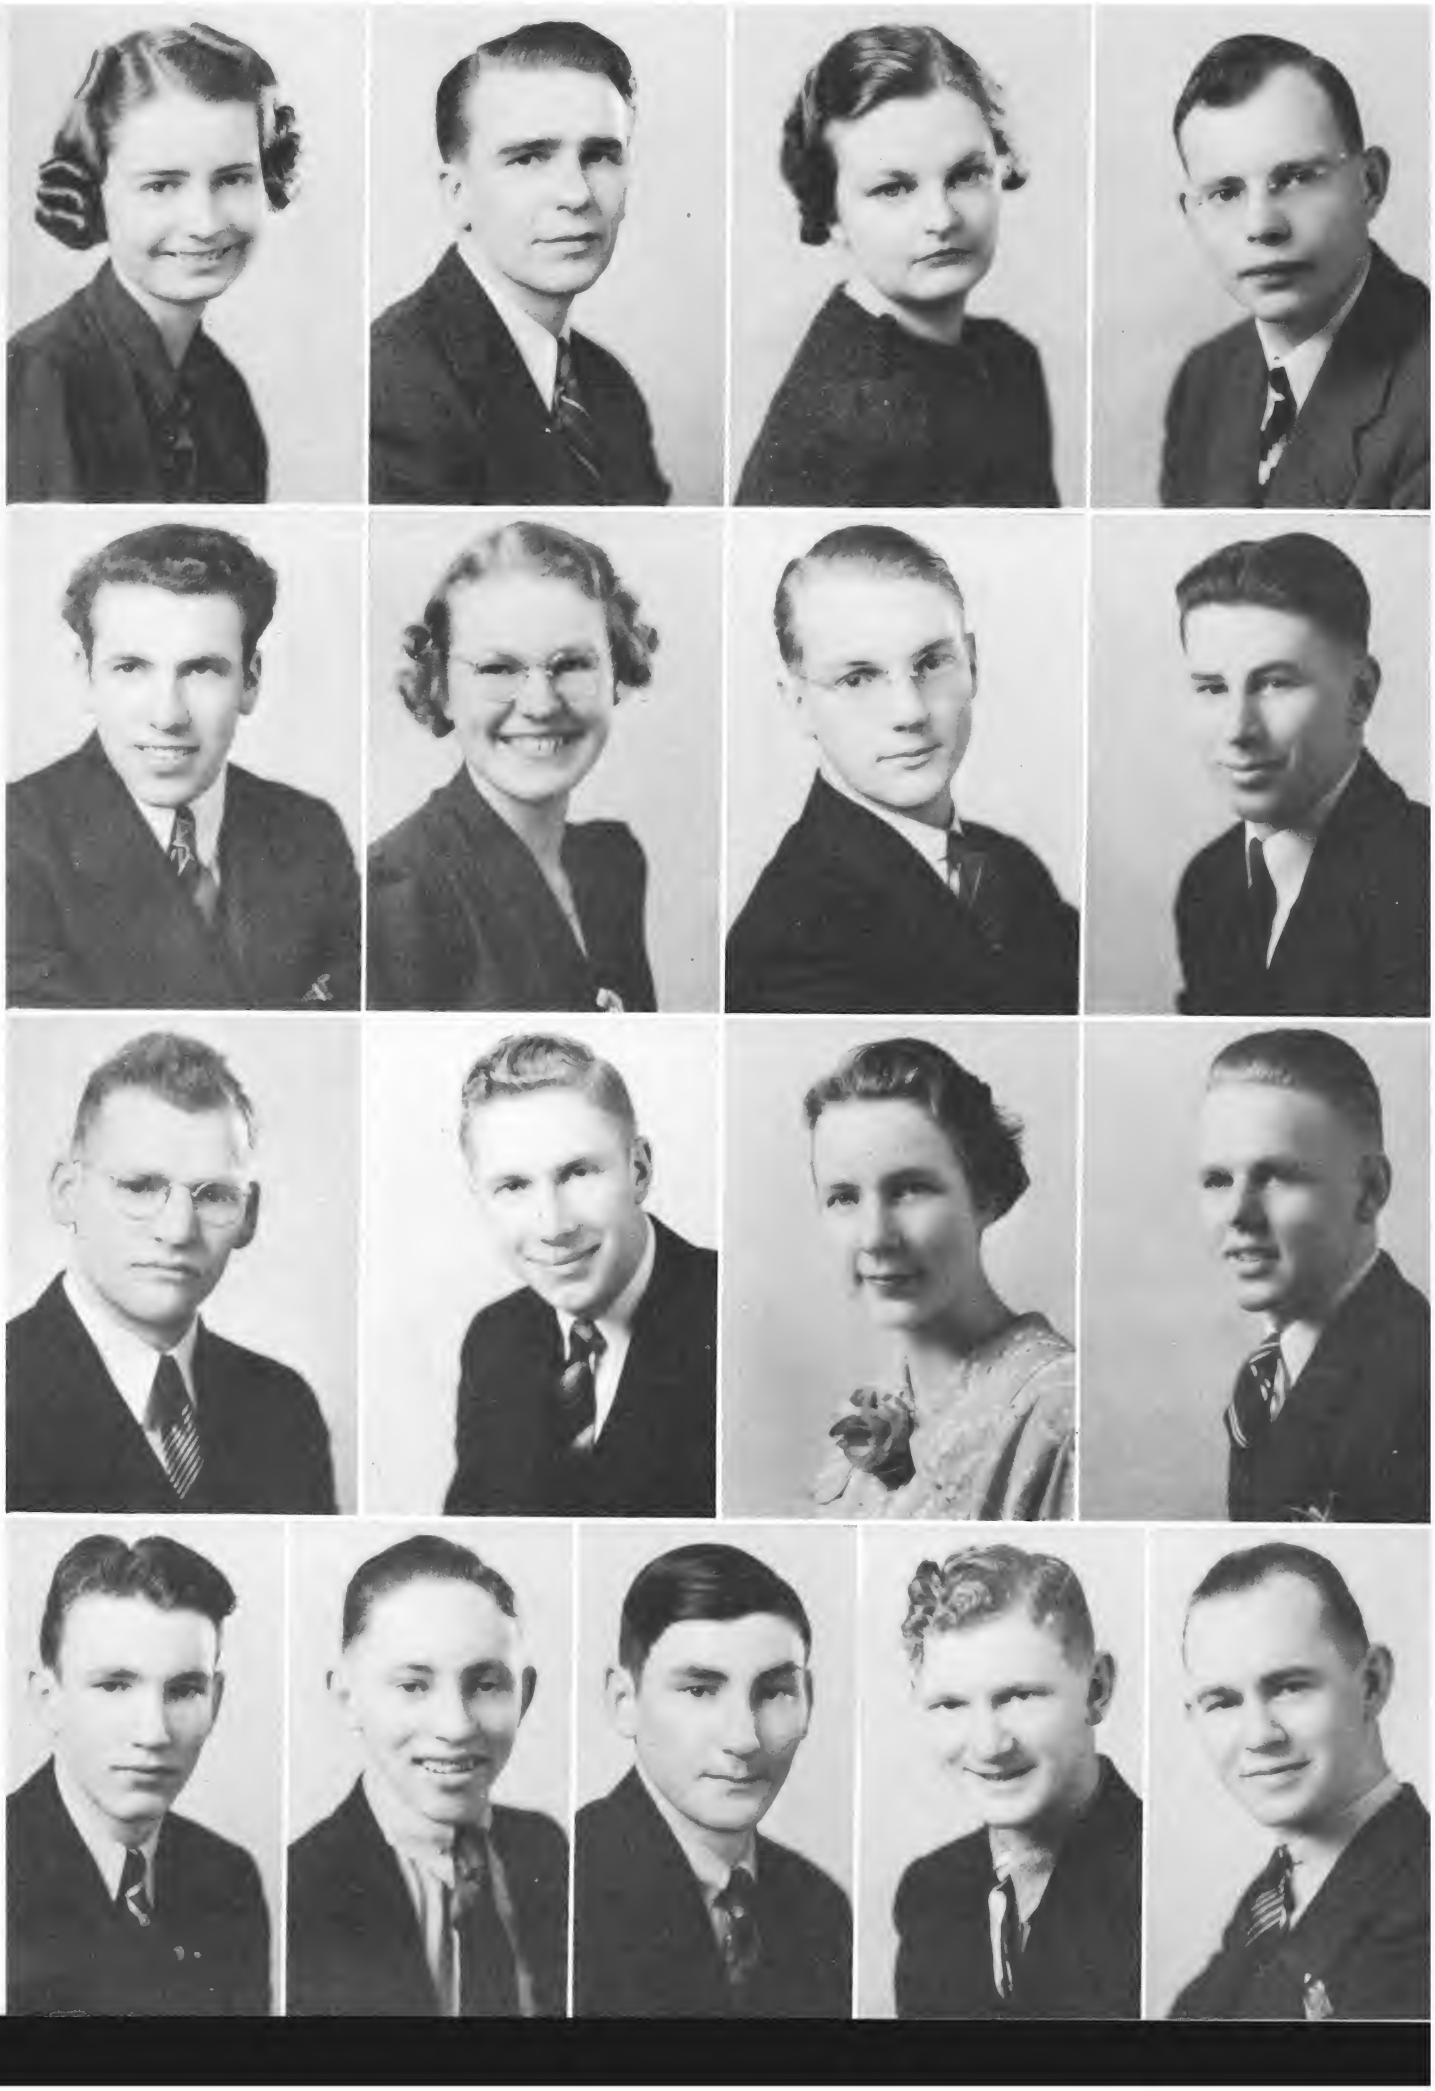

A play by Booth Tarkington, "Clarence," the story of a soldier who drove mules, was enthusiastically received in March. The freshman edition of the Crescent was edited under the leadership of Robert Sieloff. In the late spring the class entertained at the annual Sophomore-Freshman picnic.

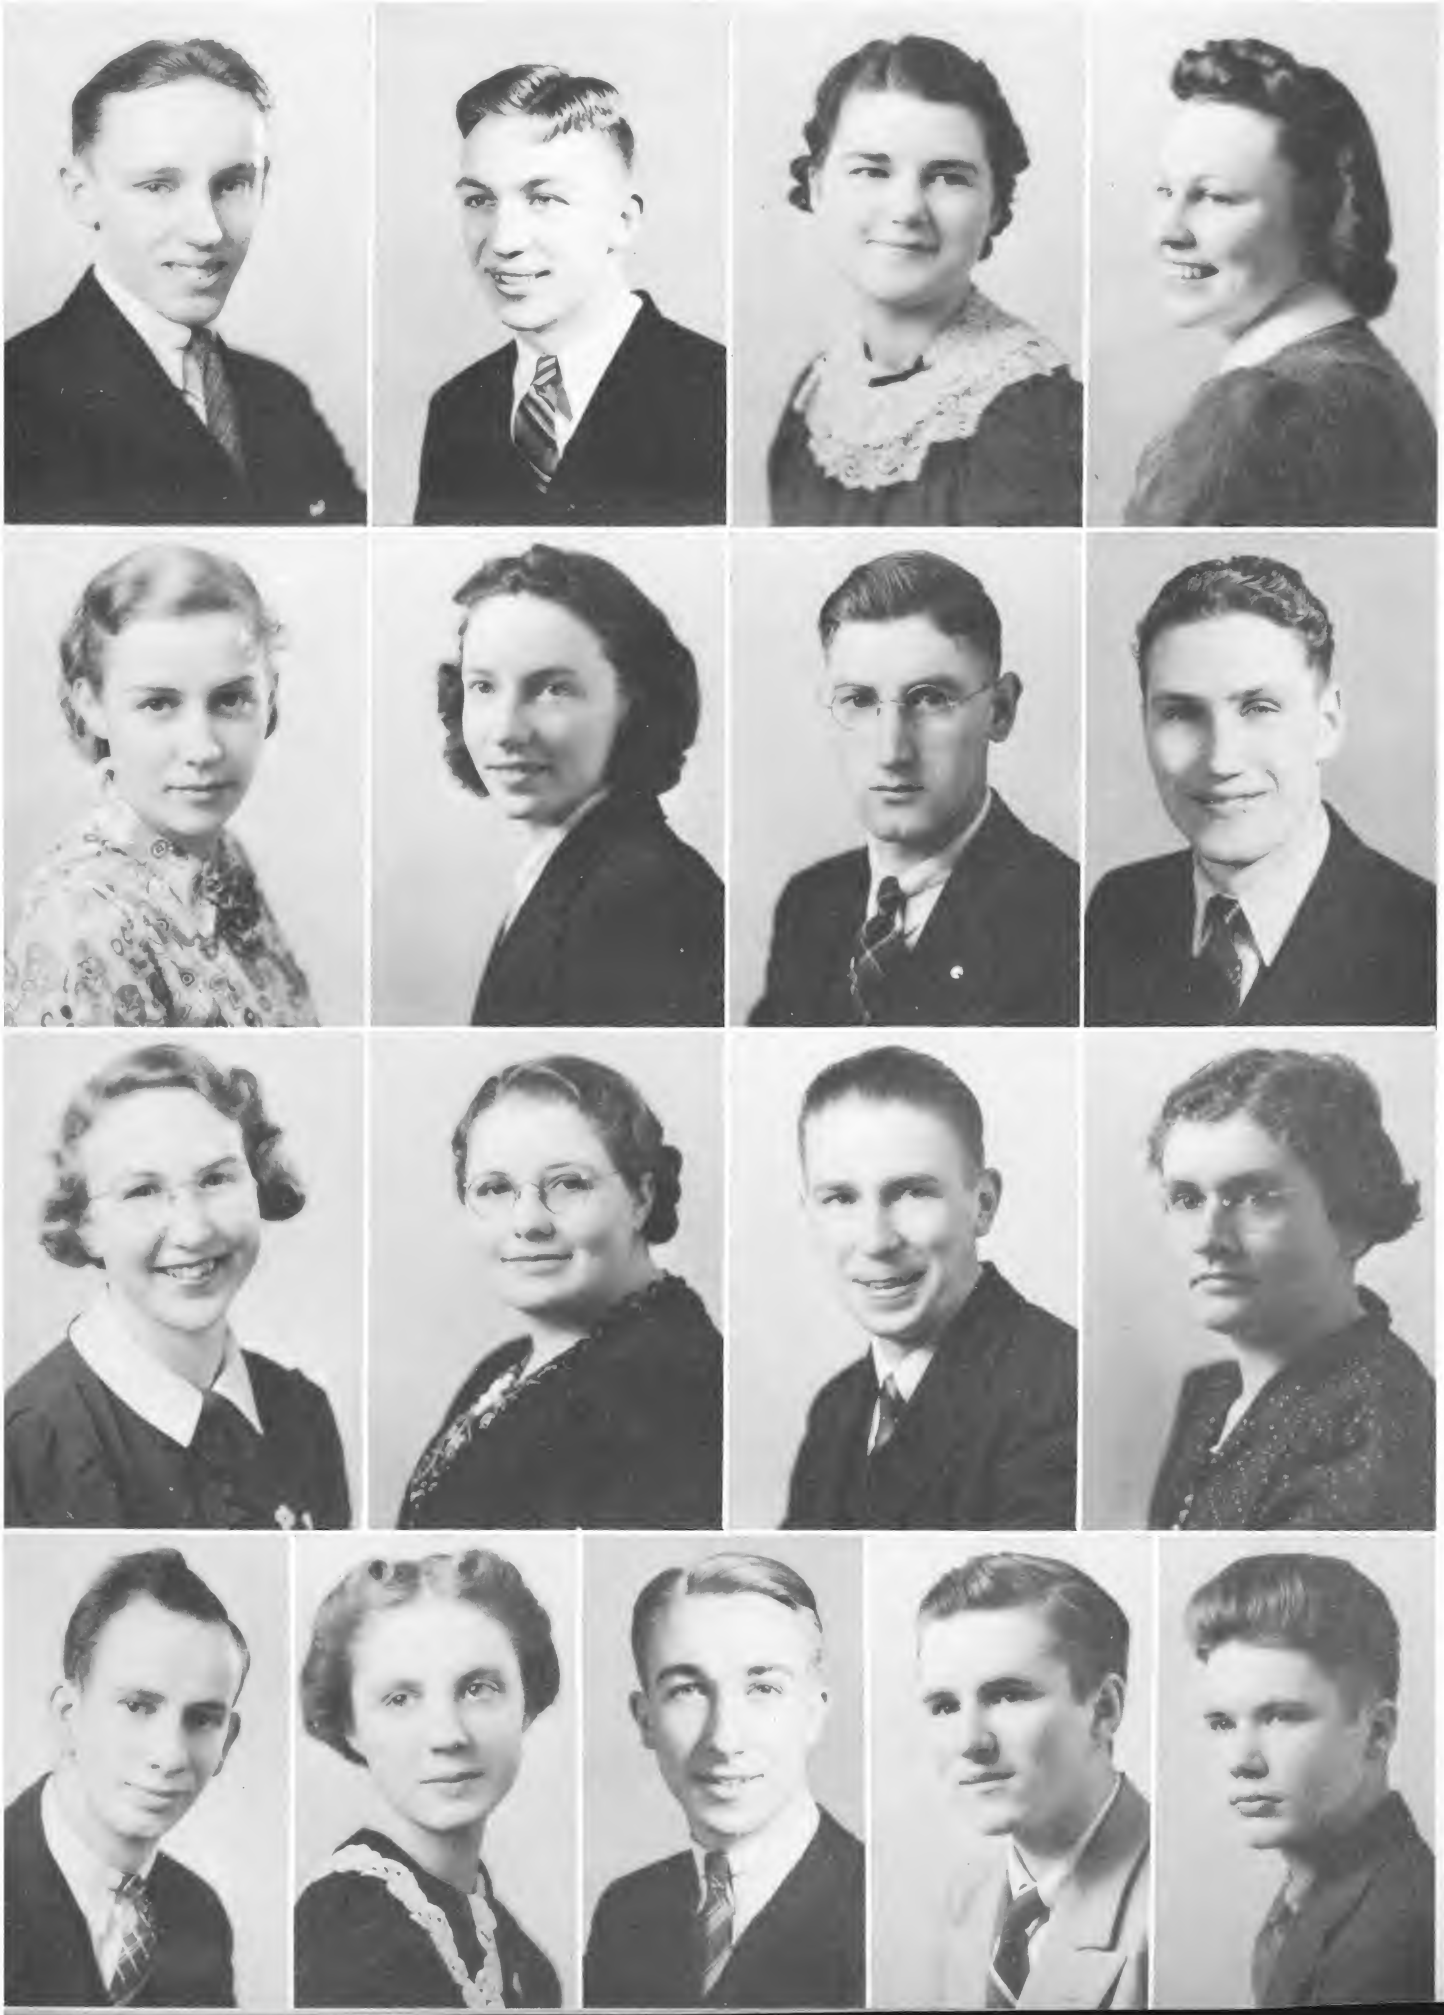

Early in the fall of '37 the Rooks were initiated by the class, now sophomores, in a very muddy College canyon. During the year the class of '40 was well represented in school activities and sports. The class affairs were guided during the year by the president, Leroy Pierson.

This year the class has again been busy in the organizations of the school, in the sports, and also in the activities which have been carried on. At the Homecoming game the Juniors sold hot dogs and in the spring they sold candy bars and chewing gum to secure funds for the annual Junior-Senior banquet. At the present time plans are under way for the banquet which is to be given on May 19 at the Friends church.

Class officers are: president, Robert Sieloff; vice-president, Howard Harrison; secretary, Ruth Hodson; and treasurer, Irene Swanson.

Swanson, Lavine, Hodson, Sieloff.
Muellen, A. Martin, Pierson, Harrison.
Keller, Atrops, Weesner, L. Martin.
Barney, Behrens, H. Davis, A. Davis, Fuchs.

Sophomore Class

The Sophomore class of '41 was initiated in the fall of '37 and at that time numbered 35, which number has decreased to 19. At that time the chief officer was President Wesley Smith, and under his guidance a very prosperous year was enjoyed.

During the initial year a three-act comedy, "Oh, Kay," was presented. The production was enjoyed by a large audience. Lawrence Balch and Margaret Lou Parker carried the leading roles. Much of the proceeds of this play went toward honoring the Sophomores at a picnic during the spring. The outing was held at Roamers Rest park.

In the Sophomore year a very successful Freshman initiation was sponsored by the class. Committee Chairman Charles Smith organized a strenuous hike for the luckless frosh through the College Kanyon. The finish of the hike included both a seat in an electric chair and eats for all.

In the spring a class picnic was held during the first part of May. Under the able leadership of Muriel Frost, and committee members, Dorothy Thompson and George Thomas, a tasty few hours were had that will be viewed in later memories.

During the Sophomore year great activity was shown with practically the entire class participating in extra-curricular activities.

Officers for the year included: president, Joseph L. Kycek; vice-president, David Riehle; secretary-treasurer, Margaret Lou Parker.

C. Smith, W. Smith, Thompson, Frost.
Roberts, Aden, Schaad, Riehle.
Parker, Thornsberry, Graves, Phipps.
Wehrley, Johnson, P. Smith, Fanttiti, Thomas.

Freshman Class

At the beginning of the year the thirty-six members of the Freshman class chose Virgil Nordyke for the class president. The other officers were Mary Esther Pemberton, vice-president, and Hazel Mary Houser, secretary-treasurer.

The class play, "Second Fiddle," by Guernsey Le Pelly was presented the latter part of March. Geraldine Eastman and Floyd Case played the romantic leads. The play was greeted by an enthusiastic crowd.

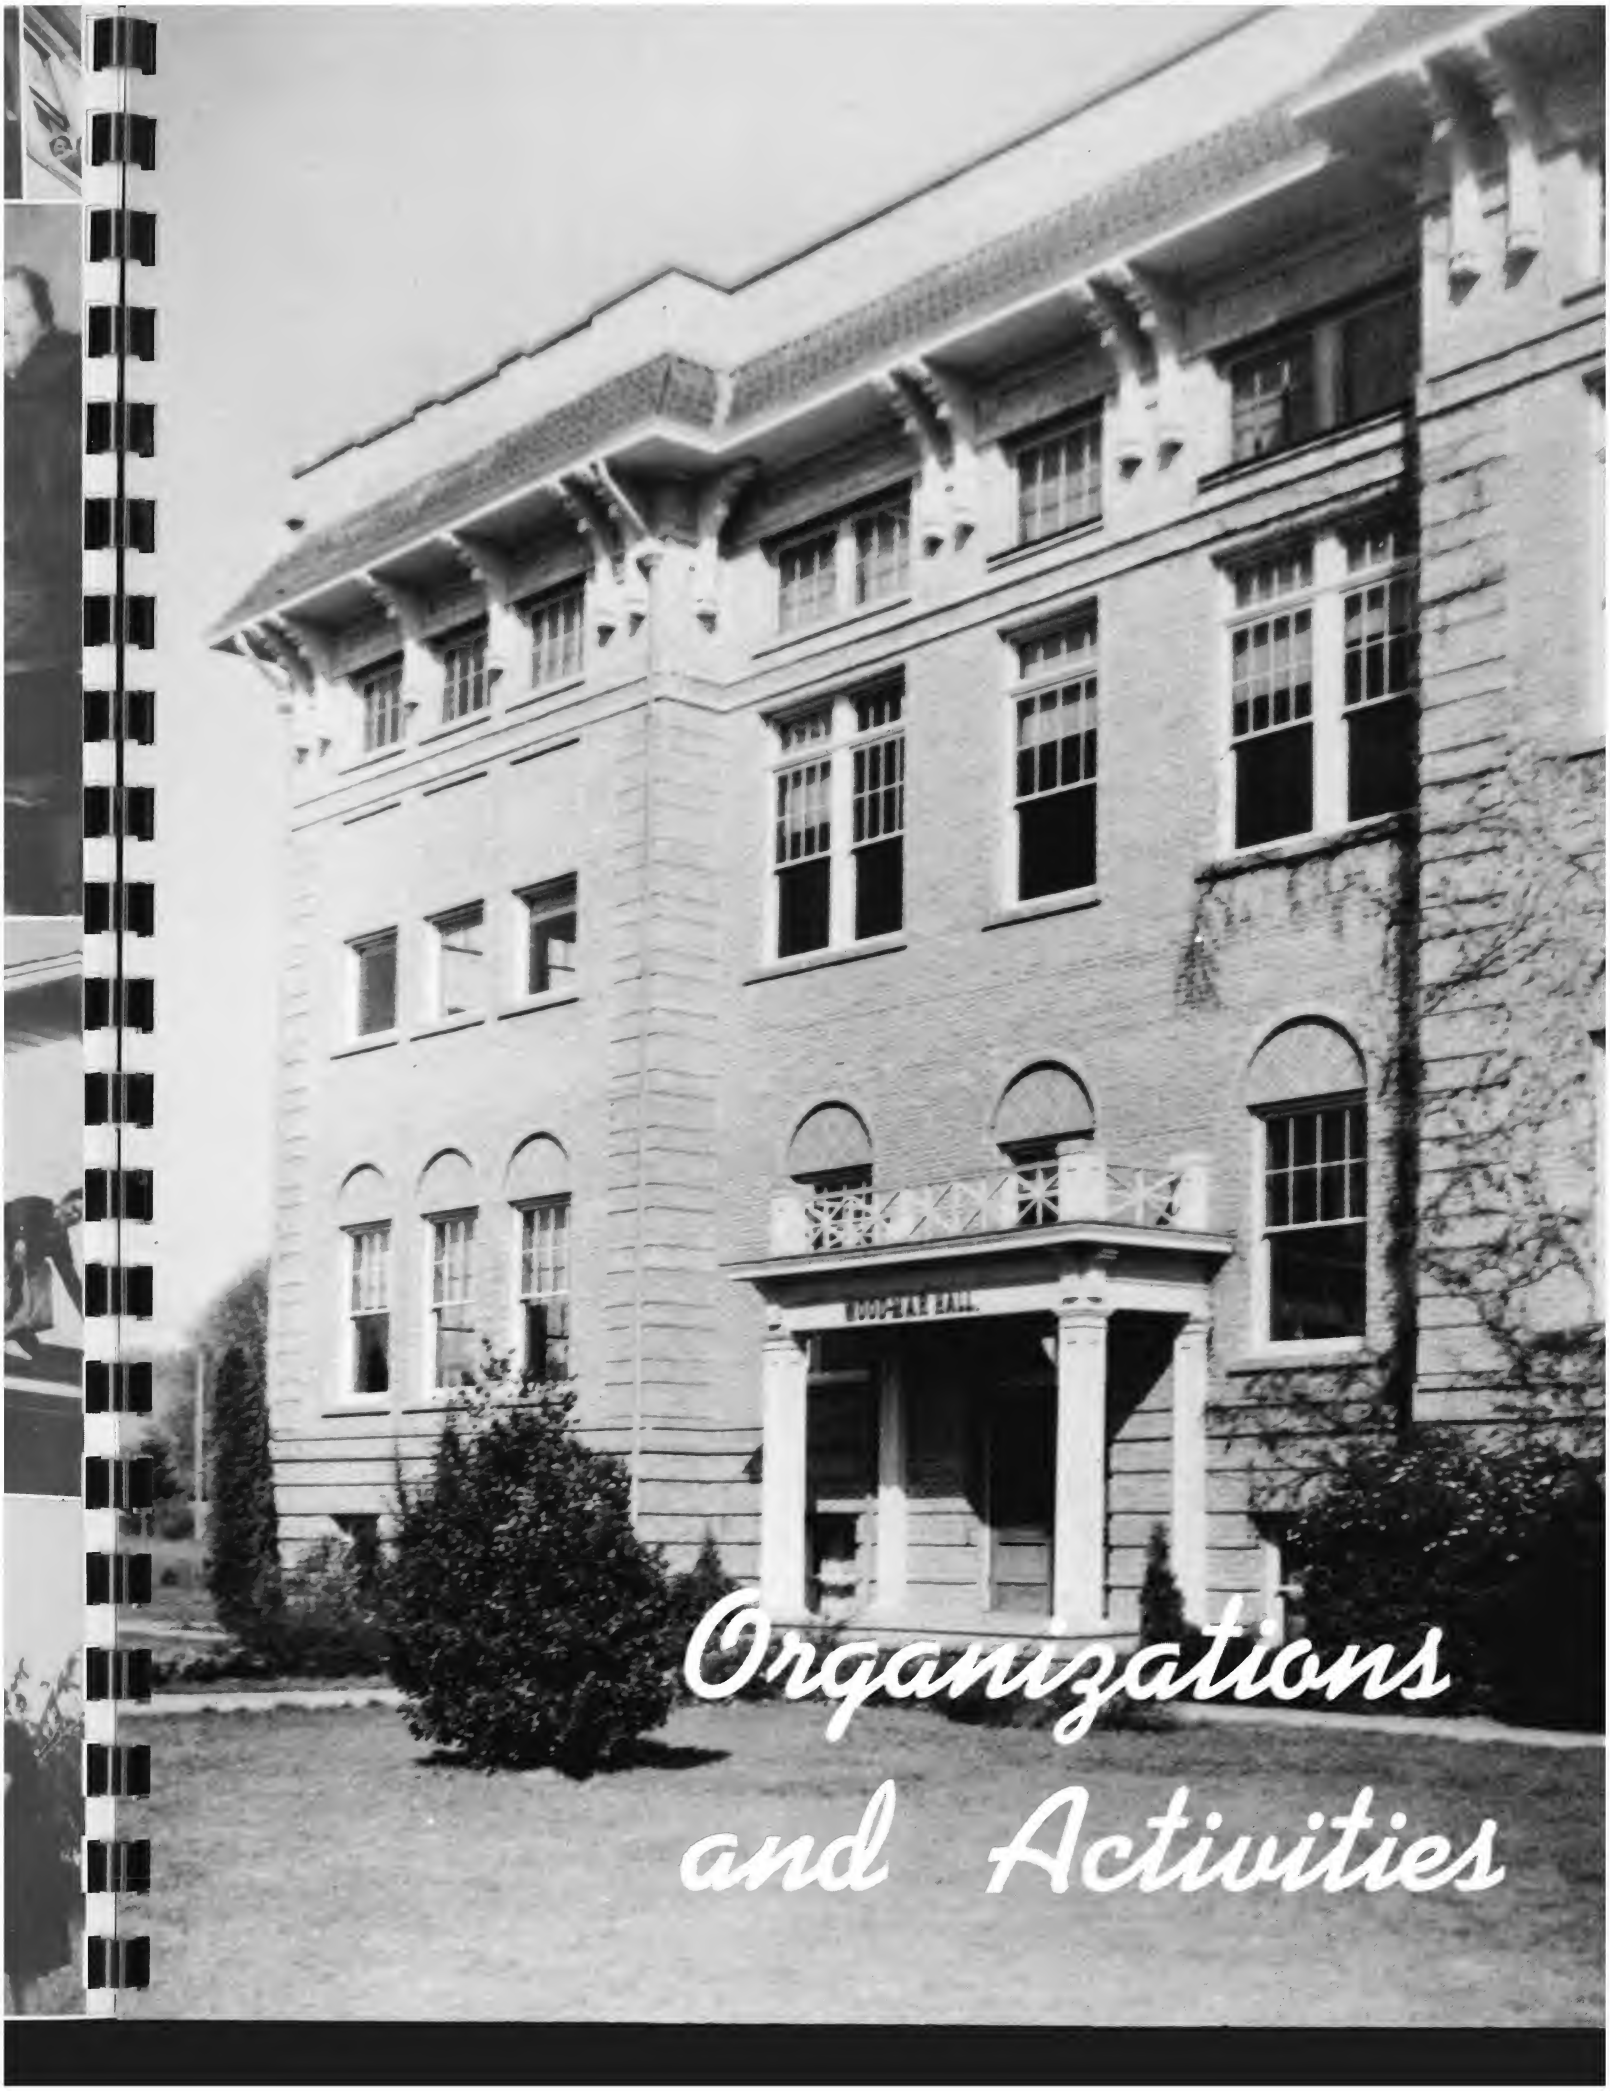

A complete frosh staff published the annual edition of the Crescent with Geraldine Eastman and Thelma Tharrington as editors. The reporting and soliciting of advertising were mastered by various members of the class.

The Rooks were interested in many sports and played an active part in them this year. Basketball, football, volleyball, and tennis were the main interests. They not only took an active part in athletics but also in school plays and other student body functions.

Trefian Literary Society

Trefian Literary Society, organized in 1914 by the girls of Pacific College, strives for the development and improvement of literary appreciation, and for the promotion of good fellowship.

Every two weeks meetings are held in the parlors of Kanyon Hall. Programs are planned for the entertainment of the members and feature musical and literary numbers. Several new features were enjoyed by the members this year. A Christmas party was held in December at the home of one of the members. The girls also enjoyed a novel Madame Quiz program.

Officers are elected for one semester only. Officers presiding for the first semester were: president, Wauline Nelson; vice-president, Ruth Hodson; secretary, Lula Roberts; treasurer, Dorothy Thompson; critic, Miss Allen; faculty adviser, Miss Kendall; marshal, Helen Aebischer; reporter, Esther May Weesner; social chairman, Irene Swanson.

Blakely

Officers for the second semester were: president, Leslie May Blakely; vice-president, Irene Swanson; secretary, Miss Kendall; treasurer, Helen Aebischer; critic, Esther May Weesner; faculty adviser, Miss Sutton; marshal, Frances Lambrix; reporter, Janet Phipps; social chairman, Lulu Roberts.

L'Ami

Each year a student is chosen to edit the Pacific College annual. LeRoy Pierson, a junior, was the student body's choice for this year. The yearbook, entitled the L'Ami, originated in 1935 when the class of '38 made a gift of twenty-five dollars to promote the book. Each year since, the associated students have published the L'Ami. The book appears in the late spring and is paid for through the securing of advertising and a student fee of two dollars a year. A business manager is elected by the student body to secure the advertising. Charles Smith held this important post for the present publication. The present yearbook is unique in respect to number of pictures it contains. This is made possible through the process of lithography. Previous books have been engraved, a process which limits the number of pictures because of the expense. The staff is voluntarily recruited from interested members of the student body. Miss Emma Kendall is the faculty adviser for the groups.

The Crescent

The Crescent is the bi-weekly newspaper published during the college year by the Student Body of Pacific College. It was first published as a monthly literary magazine fifty years ago. In 1914, Emmett Gulley, who was the editor at that time, changed the paper to its present form.

The Crescent strives to record faithfully the news of the school, to further the existing standards upheld by the majority of the College community, and to promote cooperation between the faculty and the students.

The elective offices during the year 1938-39 were: editor, Ervin Atrops; associate editor, Elva Aden; business manager, Howard Harrison; advertising manager, Virgil Nordyke; circulation manager, Esther May Weesner. The other members of the staff were appointed by the editor. Professor Emma Kendall was the faculty adviser.

Y. M. C. A.

The Young Men's Christian Association is one of the organizations on the Pacific College campus which endeavors to contribute to the welfare and fellowship of students from a Christian standpoint. The meetings of the association are held regularly on Wednesday of each week. Hymn singing, devotional, discussion of vital topics, and visiting speakers make up the program.

The association tries to find common ground in Christian ideals in order that men with differing viewpoints may cooperate in carrying on necessary projects. Some of the projects undertaken in coordination with the Y. W. C. A. are —providing baskets for needy families at Thanksgiving and Christmas, caring for the devotional life of students through prayer meetings, sending out deputation teams, and participating in programs on special occasions.

The events of the year reached a climax in the annual banquet sponsored by both associations. The important event of the evening was the installation of officers for the coming year.

The Y. M. C. A. cabinet met regularly each week to plan activities. This cabinet included the following members: president, Stanley Keller; vice-president and religious meetings, Ivan Makinster; secretary and deputation, George Thomas; treasurer, Dave Riehle; world fellowship, Robert Sieloff; membership and publicity, Leroy Pierson; social and social service, Wesley Jeffery; and adviser, Professor Lawrence F. Y. W. C. A.

The Young Women's Christian Association, voluntary organization of the College, has as its aim the spiritual, social, mental, and physical growth of character. All women of the school are invited to its meetings, which are held on Wednesdays during chapel period.

The Y. W. C. A. is an active organization, and sponsors many of the school activities. Among these are the reception for new students held each semester, a big and little sister movement, a Mother's Tea, a Christmas party for the poor children of Newberg, and a May breakfast. This year an "Anti-Sour Puss Day" was sponsored. This was a day in which all students and faculty were to become acquainted.

The officers for the past year were: president, Vera Hicks; vice-president, Alfreda Martin; secretary, Lucille Thornsberry; treasurer, Irene Swanson. The committee chairman were: deputation, Margaret Lou Parker, publicity, Leslie May Blakely; music, Helen Schmeltzer; social service, Audra Johnson; Christian world education, Dorothy Thompson; social, Phyllis Knowles; adviser, Miss Allen.

Gold P

In years gone by, lettermen from Pacific College athletic teams have banded together in an organization known as the Gold P Club. The only requirement for membership being that the man shall have earned one letter in any recognized sport and must successfully complete initiation requirements of the club. Membership in the club is everlasting and in the spring of each year a banquet is given which brings back a large portion of the alumni members to talk over old times.

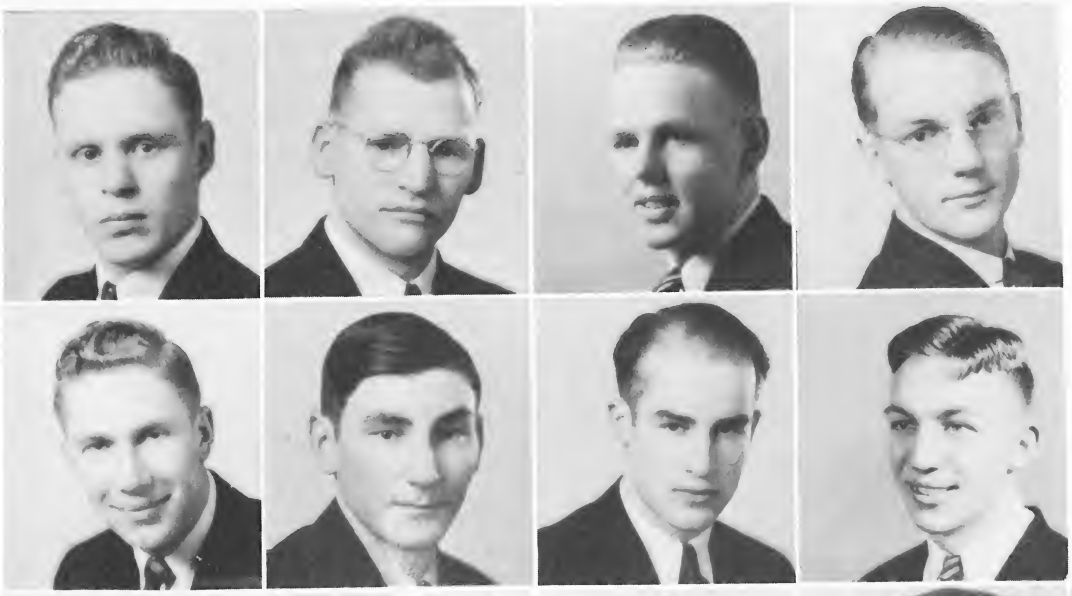

The club serves as an agent to maintain school tradition and has now undertaken the sponsorship of an annual invitational grade school basketball tournament. The tournament this year was quite successful and the first place cup became the permanent possession of St. Marys grade school which has won it for the third time in four years. Officers of the club were: president, Charles Smith; vice-president, Joe Kycek; secretary, Lyle Barkman; treasurer, Lawrence Balck.

Gold Q

Barkman

The Gold Q Club is an association of the letterwomen of Pacific College whose purpose is to create good sportsmanship, to further interest in athletics, and to encourage college activities which advance school spirit.

The insignia of the club is a small, winged gold Q pin and the badge is a blue beret with the gold Q emblem on it.

Any woman earning a letter and meeting the approval of the members is eligible for membership. Neophytes are formally initiated at the first of every fall semester after carrying out requirements fixed by club members. Since membership does not end with graduation, each year finds an increase in the number of members.

A Gold Q girl is a good sport at all times. According to the constitution, sportsmanship includes honesty, courtesy, cheerfulness, enthusiasm, graciousness in victory, and interest in the sport.

The annual affair of the club is a formal Valentine Day Dinner to which each member invites a gentleman friend.

Officers for the past year were: Lucille Barkman, president; Helen Schmeltzer, vice-president; Lulu Roberts, secretary; Betty Ferrell, treasurer; and Alfreda Martin, booster.

First row: Hicks, Houser, Barney, Hodson, Cuffel, Marx, Nixon, Williams, G. Kendall.
Second row: McCurley, McKenzie, Johnson, Thompson, Swanson, Schmeltzer, Maxon, Blakely, Aebischer.

Pep Club

The Pep Club is a girls' organization, the purpose of which is to promote pep and enthusiasm at all student body affairs. It was organized last year and has progressed quite satisfactorily this year. It is composed of those women who wish to further the support of the school in intercollegiate sports and to help instill loyalty within the student body. Any woman in school is eligible to join at any time.

Meetings have been in charge of different groups, who presented skits, songs, and other clever programs.

The officers are elected at the beginning of every athletic season. The presidents according to season were: football, Thelma Tharrington; basketball, Leslie May Blakely; and baseball, Lulu Roberts.

International Relations Club

The International Relations Club was organized for the purpose of furthering student knowledge of foreign affairs.

Membership in the club is open to every student, the sole requirement of admission being an interest in world affairs. Internal organization is simple as there is no initiation, no dues, and but two officers.

Jack Bennett served as president during the year, and Robert Sieloff filled the position of vice-president.

Club meetings were held biweekly in the Y. W. room. Leading foreign and domestic issues furnished most of the material for centered on foreign policy of the discussion, with special interest various nations. Reviews of books presented to the club by the Carnegie Foundation also consumed a large share of the discussions.

Outstanding event of the year was a panel discussion presented April 18 at the Friends Church in the interest of community education. Ivan Makinster, Roy Pierson, Robert Sieloff, and Jack Bennett were the speakers of the evening.

Forensics

Pacific College closed another year in Forensics on March 19 when Stanley Keller represented the College in the State Peace Oratorical Contest at Linfield College.

Vera Hicks won third place in the women's division of the state extemporaneous speaking contest at Oregon State College in February. Roy Pierson entered the men's division of this contest.

Earlier in the year Brock Dixon competed in a state after dinner speaking contest sponsored by the Toastmasters Clubs of Portland and Timberline.

In October Pacific College entertained the teams from the member colleges of the I. F. A. O. in a practice tournament. Teams from five colleges competed in this event. Mark Fantetti and Norwood Cunningham debated for Pacific in the men's division, while Gloria Kendall and Vera Hicks debated in the women's division. At the Linfield Tournament, in which teams from six states participated, Vera Hicks and Gloria Kendall again represented Pacific in the women's division. Ivan Makinster debated with Mark Fantetti in the men's division. The women, more successful this time than the men, won the majority of their debates.

The Intercollegiate Forensics Association of Oregon had for its president this year Vera Hicks, a senior from this College.

Music

Murdock

The Pacific College chorus has completed another year of work under the direction of Mrs. Murdock. During the course of the year, a Christmas program was presented in Wood-Mar Hall, December 20. The types of music featured in this concert were several different kinds of Christmas Carols, ranging from one by Handel to a carol of Mountain Whites.

Another concert was presented April 3 consisting of miscellaneous chorus numbers and solos by first year voice students. The featured soloists were Miss Esther May Weesner and Miss Mary Ellen Gill, students of Mrs. Murdock. The accompanist for the group and for the solos was Miss Vera Larson of Newberg.

Freshman Class Play

The Freshman class play, "Second Fiddle," by Guernsey Le Pelley under the direction of Miss McCurley, was presented in Wood-Mar Hall, March 24. The play was a three-act farce that held the interest of the audience from beginning to end.

The romantic leads were played by Geraldine Eastman and Floyd Case, who were accidently married by the butler, Max Collver. When Dorothy Van Straaten, played by Mary Esther Pemberton, who is Floyd's fiancee, showed up affairs took a turn for the worse. However, the trouble was straightened out and of course, the play ended happily for all.

The production staff was as follows

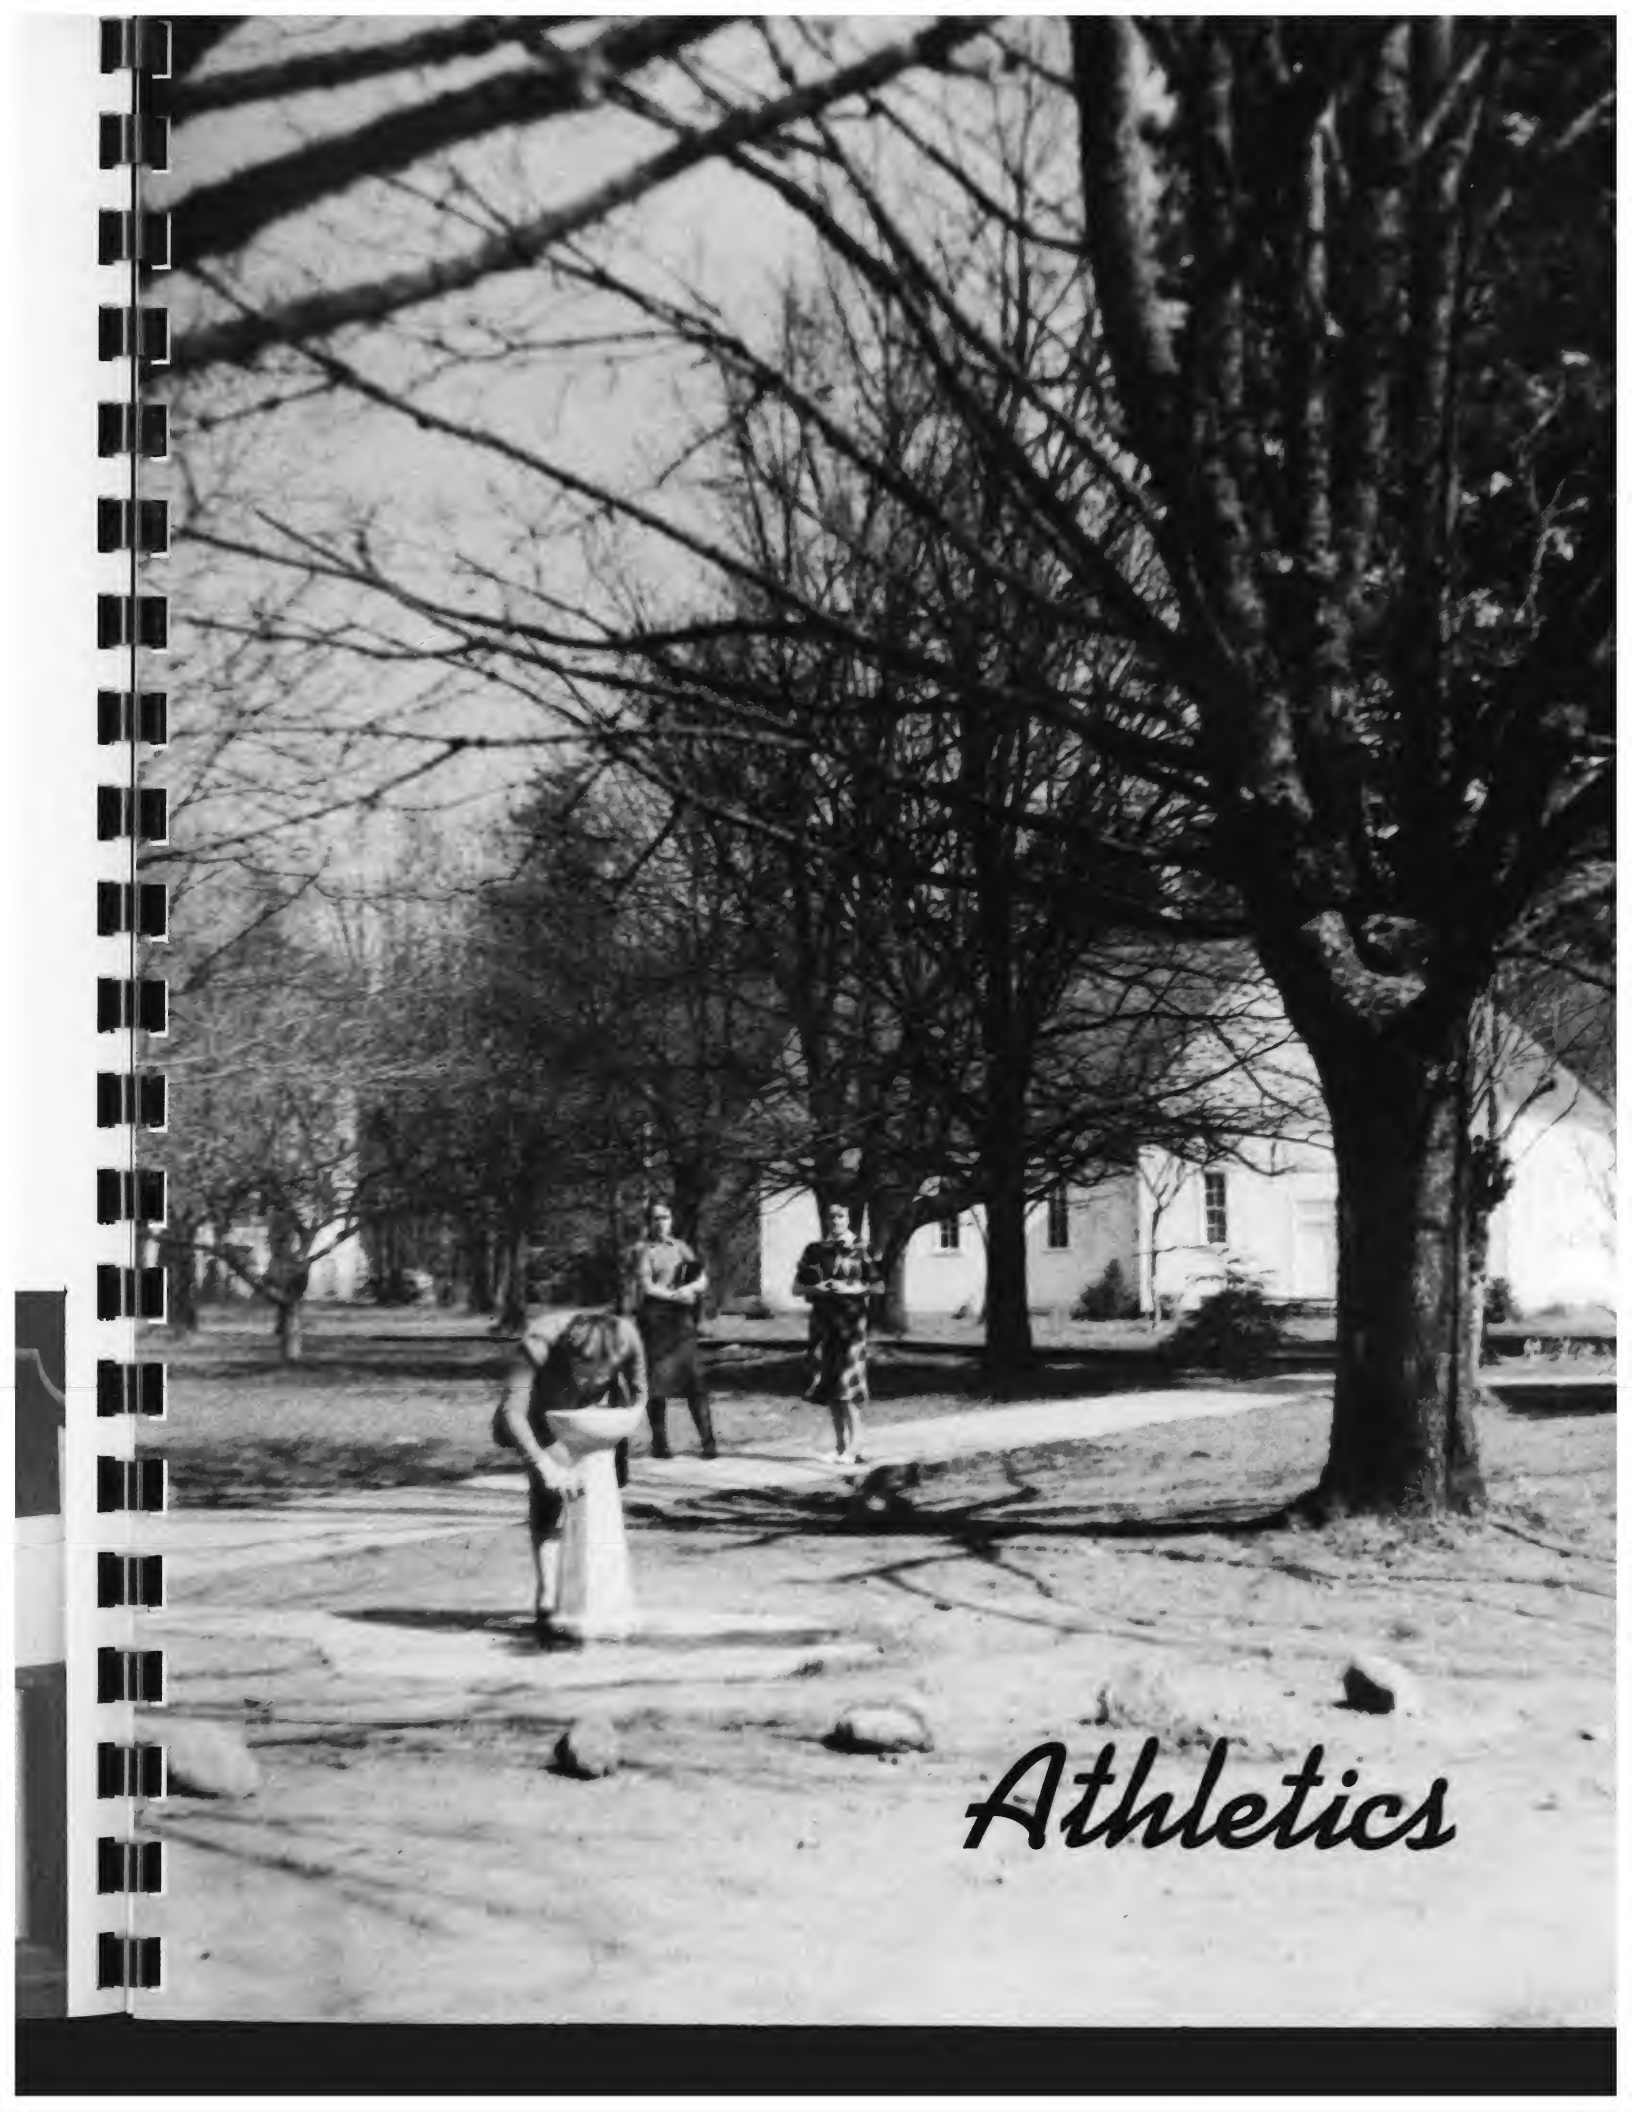

Business Manager ..... Virgil Nordyke
Advertising Manager .... Harold Norby
Stage Manager ..... Wesley Jeffery
Property Manager ..... Fern Nixon

The cast was as follows:

Minnie Carson ..... Ruth McKenzie

Athletics

Athletics at Pacific have been under the direction of Orla Kendall, director of physical education for men, and assistant football coach. Coach Stanley Keller has shown outstanding ability in coaching football, basketball, and baseball. This is his first year as coach of athletics in Pacific, and he deserves a real hand from the entire student body. His leadership and aggressiveness have won the support and admiration of Pacific College students.

Miss Lois McCurley has directed women's athletics consisting of volleyball, basketball, and baseball. She has completed her second year of efficient and progressive service at Pacific College.

M. A. A.

The Men's Athletic Association of Pacific College is an organization of all men in the school for the purpose of promoting and sponsoring athletic activities on the campus. This year the association sponsored football, basketball, and baseball.

Actual administration and direction of the M. A. A. is done by a council consisting of four officers and four class representatives. Lyle Barkman was president this year and under his capable guidance the association continued the good work begun last year of improving the financial situation. Other members of the council were: secretary, Wesley Smith; treasurer, Robert Sieloff; senior representative, Wayne Burt; junior representative, Charles Smith; and sophomore representative, Joe Kycek. George Graves filled the office of athletic manager the entire year.

In cooperation with the student body and the women's athletic association a sports jamboree was held in the legion hall. A basketball frolic was also sponsored as one of the means to obtain needed funds.

W. A. A.

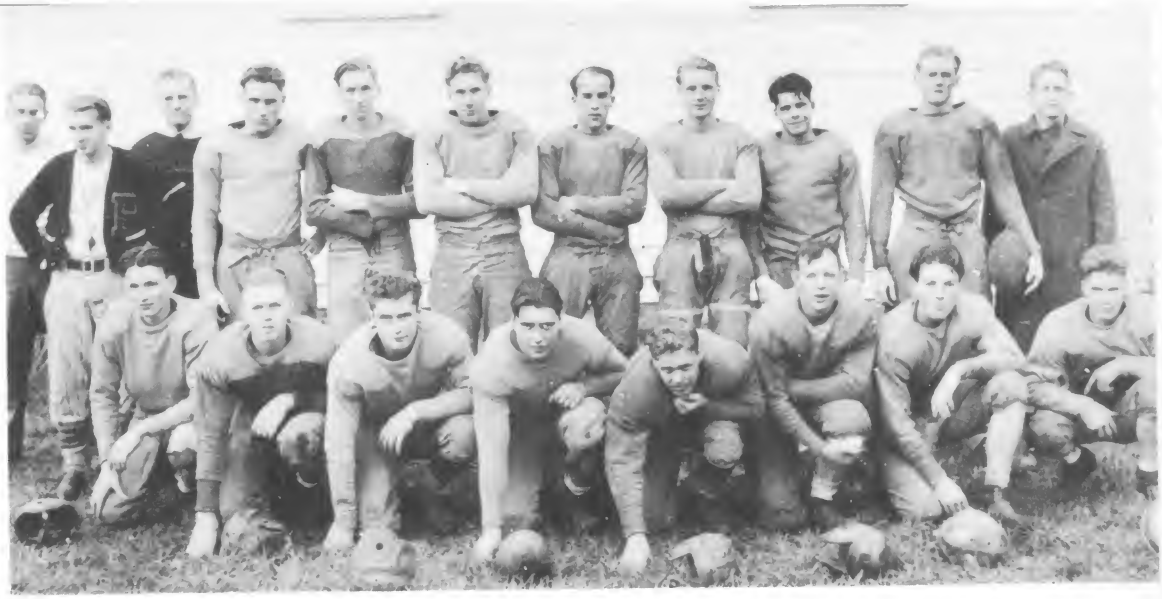

The Women's Athletic Association of Pacific College is an organization of all women enrolled for physical education and those working for letters. This organization is for the purpose of promoting and sponsoring sports among the women, including volleyball, basketball, tennis, hiking, and softball.

The W. A. A. receives a certain per cent of the student affairs fee from which are purchased equipment, letters, and sweaters. This year the finances of the W. A. A. were aided by the returns of a Sports Jamboree which was held in November. This jamboree was made possible by the cooperation of both the W. A. A and the M. A. A.

The aim of the organization is to promote good sportsmanship, pep, and cooperation in athletics on the campus.

The president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer are elected in March for the ensuing year. This year Reola Symons guided the organization as president, assisted by Betty Ferrell as vice-president, and Leslie Mae Blakely as secretary-treasurer.

The managers are elected in September. This year the managers were: volleyball, Gloria Kendall; basketball, Vera Hicks; tennis, Elva Aden; hiking, Louise Marx; softball, Lulu Roberts. The duties of the managers consist of taking charge of the sports, scheduling games, keeping the time record of the individual players, and recommending awards to the council.

Football

This year's football under the efficient direction of Coach Stanley Keller and Orla Kendall has introduced six man football. This is a much faster game than the traditional eleven man, with greater possibilities for individual honors. Pacific's six man team carried away honors at Reed College in a Round Robin which officially started the season. The Quakers scored 12 points during the contest. Although Pacific was handicapped by injuries and ineligibility lists, the true fighting spirit and sportsmanship was shown throughout the season which makes football stand out as a college sport.

Griff Jones, a freshman from Grant High, Portland, held down the quarterback position and was the key man in the backfield attack. Coach Keller will lose the following lettermen through graduation: Burt, Barkman, and Emry, four and two two-year lettermen respectively. Next year there will be eleven returning lettermen.

First row: Keller, Harrison, Thornsberry, Kendall, C. Smith, H. Davis, A. Davis.

Baseball

This year's baseball season had none too promising an outlook for Coach Keller, as there were only five returning lettermen on which to build his team. Keller carried most of the pitching load with Harold Davis, a converted infielder, filling the relief roll.

The returning lettermen were: Charles Smith and Buck Davis, infielders; Orla Kendall and Arza Davis, outfielders; and Keller, pitcher.

The season was very successfully initiated with a 17-6 landslide over Reed College. The first hit of the season was made by Orla Kendall, lead-off man. Chet Harrison, a freshman and regular third baseman, knocked the first home run and also the first double. C. Smith received the first walk.

The starting lineup was as follows: Keller, pitcher; Thornsberry, catcher; C. Smith, first base; Mueller, second base; C. Harrison, third base; H. Davis, shortstop; A. Davis, right field; G. Thomas, center field; and O. Kendall, left field.

Men's Basketball

Stanley Keller turned in his first year as Coach of Pacific's basketball teams. Although the Quakers did not win any league games, the victory bell rang many times in the non-league contests. The season ended with a thrilling victory over the Cascade Lock's town team.

Kycek, sharpshooting little forward, was high point man for the season, followed by Charles Smith and Jack Bennett.

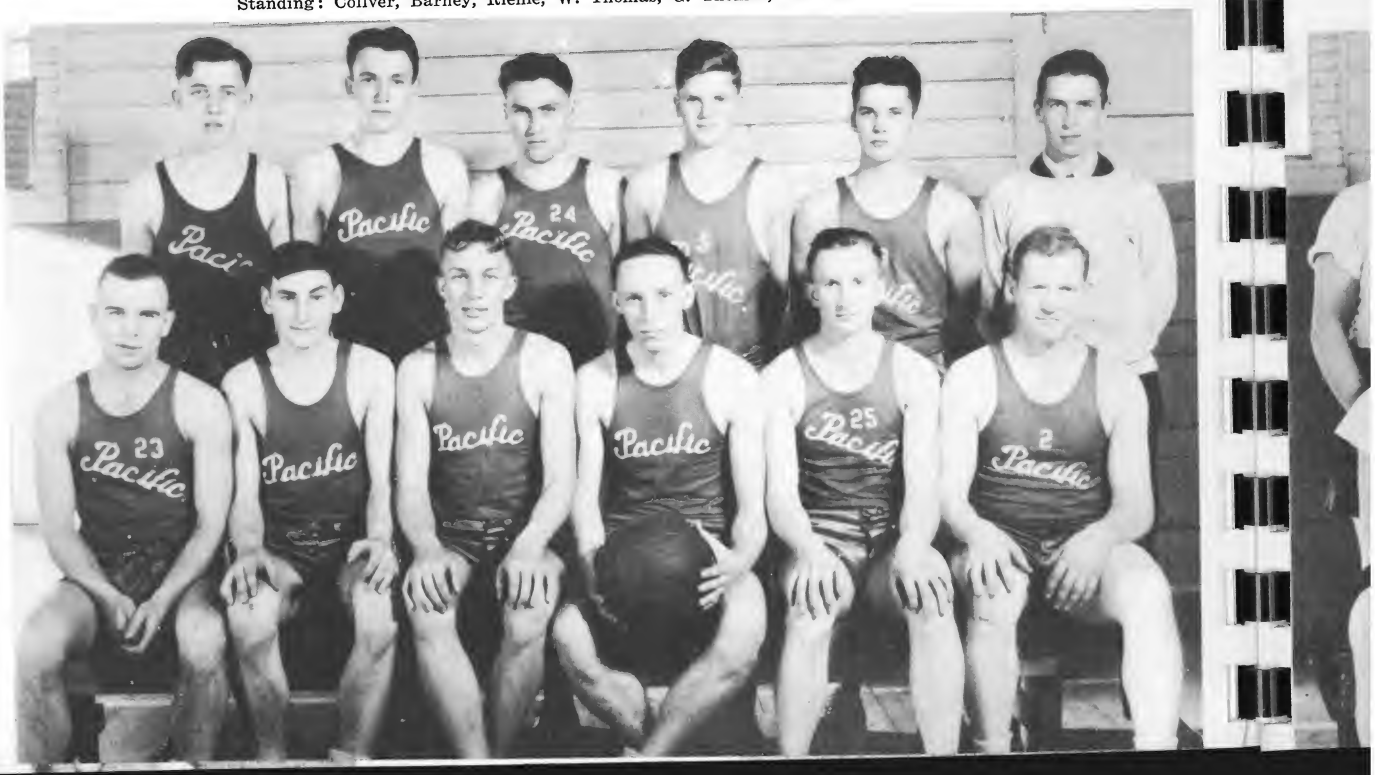

New material from the freshman class gave Coach Keller two guards, Chester Harrison and Wesley Jeffery. They turned in excellent performances.

The outlook for the coming season is promising, as Gearin is the only basketball man to graduate and there will be a large squad of returning lettermen for the coming year.

Positions were as follows: Forwards, Kycek, C. Smith, Davis, and Gearin; Center, Bennett; Guards, Jeffery, C. Harrison, W. Smith, and Keller.

Women's Basketball

This year's basketball season while not having many wins, was more successful than the last. The girls played four intercollegiate games, winning one, tying one, and losing two. The games were played with Reed College and Pacific University.

The freshman class furnished the majority of the basketball material. Those freshmen who won letters were Mary Esther Pemberton, forward; Ruth McKenzie, guard; Geraldine Eastman, Fern Nixon, and Ruth Cuffel, forwards. Others who won letters were Betty Ferrell, forward, and Janet Phipps and Gloria Kendall, guards.

All of the girls but one will be back again next year, and prospects are good for a bigger and better team than ever.

Miss Lois McCurley was the coach and Vera Hicks the manager.

Seated: Barney, Thomas, Eastman, Pemberton, Frost.
Standing: Phipps, McKenzie, Kendall, Nixon, Cuffel, Ferrell.

Standing: Kendall, Eastman, Barkman, Hicks, Phipps.
Seated: Thomas, Pemberton, Tharrington, Symons, Schmeltzer.

Women's Volleyball

Under the direction of Miss Lois McCurley, the Quakerettes played four intercollegiate games this year. They won one, tied one and lost two.

The first two games were played with Reed college, both of them being lost to Reed. The next game was played with Pacific University at Pacific College, where the P. C. girls came through to win the first victory over the P. U. girls in several years. The last game which was played at P. U. was a tie.

This year's freshman class furnished valuable volleyball material. Four girls winning letters were freshmen. They were Thelma Tharrington, Mary Esther Pemberton, Mary Thomas, and Geraldine Eastman. Other girls winning letters were Janet Phipps, Lula Roberts, Alfreda Martin, Helen Schmeltzer, Reola Symons, and Gloria Kendall. Captains for the games were Lula Roberts and Gloria Kendall.

Opportunity

They do me wrong who say I come no more
When once I knock and fail to find you in;
For every day I stand outside your door
And bid you wake, and rise to fight and win.

Wail not for precious chances passed away!
Weep not for golden ages on the wane!
Each night I burn the records of the day—
At sunrise every soul is born again!

Dost thou behold thy lost youth all aghast?
Dost reel from righteous Retribution's blow?
Then turn from blotted archives of the past
And find the future's pages white as snow.

Art thou a mourner? Rouse thee from thy spell;
Art thou a sinner? Sins may be forgiven;
Each morning gives thee wings to flee from hell,
Each night a star to guide thy feet to heaven.

Laugh like a boy at splendors that have sped,
To vanished joys be blind and deaf and dumb;
My judgments seal the dead past with its dead,
But never bind a moment yet to come.

Though deep in mire, wring not your hands and weep;
I lend my arm to all who say "I can!"
No shame-faced outcast ever sank so deep
But yet might rise and be again a man!
